

Abstract

A cell culture preparation and methods are provided which are suitable for production in cells of a first protein in a class of proteins where the medium is deficient in a second protein in a related class, where the second protein is normally present in the serum and capable of interfering with the purification of the first compound.